Family Perspectives

When Jesus drove the merchants out of the temple, he was not angry, he was passionate. Jesus clearly believed in what He was doing. The gospel tells us that because of this, "many believed in His Name because they saw the signs that He was showing them." If we expect our children to learn our values and beliefs, then they must witness our passion for these values. Just like the people in today's gospel, our children need to see the signs of what we're doing if they are to believe. Our children must see us as passionate leaders.
